PRISONERS BEING BROUGHT IN IN LARGE BATCHES

By GLADWIN HILL
London, Aug. 16—(P)—The Allies showered steel and surrender leaflets on the German Seventh Army's pell-mell retreat near Falaise today and, by Berlin account, hurled an American column within 40 miles of Paris, threatening a new encirclement of fleeing German troops.

German broadcasts declared the American Third Army, in a lightning 60-mile eastward drive, was battling near Dreux and Chartres, only 40 miles from the capital.

These armored spearheads, driving toward the Seine, carried the potential menace of swinging behind the enemy and bottling him up between the river and the Atlantic coast. Seine bridges have been knocked out by dive-bombing.

Field dispatches declared Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge had pulled most of his armor from the vanishing Normandy front, but his last holdout at Falaise had been sliced to eight miles. Possibly 50,000 Nazis still were fighting rearguard actions within the dwindling Normandy pocket.

Both the German high command and American radio broadcasts said Americans of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army had plunged 60 miles eastward from Alencon and were battling on a 20-mile sector between Dreux and Chartres. Patton won Alencon in his drive northward from Le Mans into Argentan, where he brought in the southern jaw of the pincers on Falaise.

Canadians on the north reached the outskirts of Falaise, and opened an assault on that communications town.

Low German casualties in the western France debacle approached the 300,000 mark.

Included in the shower of surrender leaflets were pictures of German officers capitulating at Cherbourg. These were designed to illustrate the type of treatment the enemy could expect.

The Germans were running a fiery gauntlet of bombs and shells near Falaise.

CBS Correspondent Eric Sevareid reported that Allied troops began fighting last evening for St. Tropez, on the gulf of the same name midway between Cannes and Toulon.

Although details of this new thrust against Hitler's Europe were cloaked in official silence, it became known that the Frejus area, 33 miles southwest of Nice, and Cap Negre, 28 miles east of Toulon, were two of the points where the thousands of assault troops, mainly American and French, began going ashore yesterday morning.

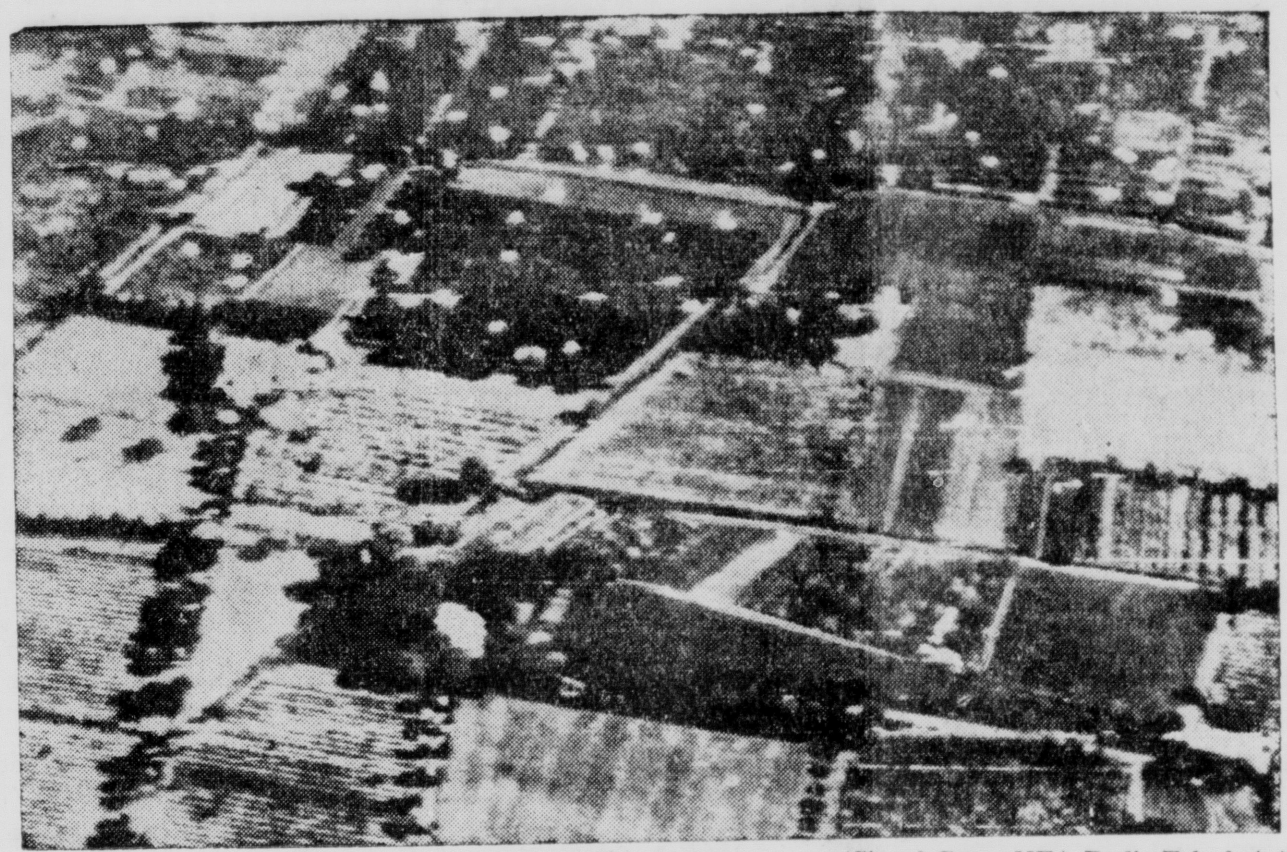

Dispatches from correspondents referred to three separate Allied beachheads, but the location of a third was not disclosed. Stephen Barber, Associated Press war correspondent, said the landings covered a 40-mile stretch of the coast.

Unless the Germans are able to mobilize a much greater defensive force than that so far encountered, it appeared certain that the Allied landing forces, which were spearheaded by veteran American troops and French assault units, would quickly extend its hold.

Allied headquarters said in a special announcement last night that the beachheads were extended and widened successfully yesterday against only sporadic enemy opposition and that "some of the high ground back of the beaches is in our hands."

The earliest official disclosures placed the landings on a broad front on the coast between Marseille and Nice, but one specific location was given last night with (Turn to Page Seven)

Both Ends Of Jap Screen In Pacific Raided

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 16—(P)—Japan's screen of Pacific islands has been bombed again at both its ends and near the center—at the Kuriles in the north, two 700 miles south of Tokyo, and the Spice Islands on the equator.

Adverse weather limited the New Guinea-Carolines sector, but far to the west, heavy bombers from China bombed Takao, Formosa, and sank three freighters between Formosa and the China coast, to add to hammer blows from every direction.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that Liberator and Mitchell bombers, continuing attacks which have pulverized Halmahera as a Japanese base, raided both Halmahera and Ternate in the Spice Islands repeatedly Monday, through heavy anti-aircraft fire. The bombs set warehouses afire and exploded ammunition dumps.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced meanwhile that Army (Turn to Page Seven)

W. P. B. Chief Is Summoned By Committee

Washington, Aug. 16—(P)—Donald M. Nelson, who thinks the country can get back to pre-war standards of civilian production even while Japan keeps fighting, was called before a senate committee today with a "tell us more" assignment.

The War Production Board chairman was invited, said Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the war investigating committee, to supply the "low down" on whether there is any scarcity now, or in sight, for the armed forces.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) added that "we want to know more" about Nelson's plans for making things civilians use. The plans on some occasions have been strongly resisted by the military.

Nelson told a news conference yesterday that conquest of Germany will be the signal for hiking output of civilian goods to the level of 1939, adding that production in that year was close to the record set in 1941.

Such an increase would mean 30 percent more consumer products than are being manufactured at present, Nelson said.

He estimated that a 40 percent cutback of munitions production will follow the German war, implementing the interim reconversion program.

SHORTAGE OF ICE IN HAZLETON REPORTED

Hazleton, Aug. 16—(P)—With ice manufacturing facilities unable to keep up the demand, Hazleton is experiencing an ice shortage due to the prolonged heat wave.

Dealers are refusing to serve new customers and are limiting sales to residential consumers.

One dealer said his sales last Saturday were the highest since he started in the ice business over 20 years ago.

Closing of Pools In State Suggested

Harrisburg, Aug. 16—(P)—Health Secretary Dr. A. H. Stewart suggested today that all Pennsylvania swimming pools be closed as the state's infantile paralysis outbreak spread into a 44th county.

Thirty-four new cases of the disease boosted to 364 the number of persons stricken this year compared with 22 in 1943. Twenty deaths have been reported to the health department.

ALL-OUT BID FOR WARSAW IS LAUNCHED

Destruction of 32 Nazi Tanks and 800 Troops In Counter-Attacks at Praga

PLANS ARE COMPLETED

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Aug. 16—(P)—The Red Army appeared today to be making its real, all-out bid for Warsaw against bitter resistance in the Praga district just across the board and swift Vistula from the besieged Polish capital.

Another menace to the German defense system increased below East Prussia, where Soviet troops were driving through a 15-mile defense belt toward the German rail center of Lyck in the east Prussian Masurian Lake region.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's army group has been with in gunshot of Warsaw since late July. For the first time in many days, the Soviet communique mentioned the Warsaw battle, disclosing the destruction of 32 Nazi tanks and 800 troops in a counter-attack in the battle of Praga.

Rokossovsky has completed his assault plans, built up reserves, strengthened his communications and eliminated a strong German threat to his right flank and today was striking for the heart of the enemy defense zone before Warsaw.

In locations were that the struggle on the east side of the Vistula was in its final stage. The Russians announced at mid-night that Marshal Ivan S. Koniev's army group which had taken 1,500 square miles west of the Vistula in the area 100 miles below Warsaw and 35 from Krakow had killed 140,000 Germans and captured 32,300 in a month ending Aug. 12.

While only a frontal battle for Warsaw was reported in the Praga area, the Germans were in a precarious position and faced flank blows from the north and south as well.

A Soviet communique said the Germans succeeded in forcing a wedge into the Russian positions but "by blows from the flanks the Soviet units threw back the enemy and restored the situation."

The effort to relieve Warsaw was one of many counterattacks to which the German high command committed irreplaceable reserves yesterday, others striking vainly at Russian armies near the East Prussian front in Lithuania and west of the Vistula.

Plan Organization For World Security

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 16—(P)—Creation of a world security organization along lines to be laid down at the four-power meetings here this month probably will eliminate the need for a general peace conference and a catch-all peace treaty, such as the Versailles treaty, after this war.

Instead of numerous and difficult problems of making a just and lasting peace are expected to be turned over to the projected post-war version of the United Nations for both settlement and maintenance.

American officials argue that it would be logical to set up in coming months an organization to preserve peace, yet deny it the right to make that peace in the first place.

Leads New Assault

The U. S. Army's Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers commands the American-British-French assault force on the Mediterranean coast of France. Up the Rhone to effect a junction with Allied forces in central France is his route of conquest.

Truman Has Plan To Save Senate Seat

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Aug. 16—(P)—Senator Harry S. Truman figured out today how, if elected vice president, he could take office without costing his party a Missouri senate seat.

It's all done with calendars provided—and this is important in the figuring—that the Democratic party carries Missouri and the nation November 7.

Truman's senate term has two and a half more years to run. If elected vice president on the Democratic ticket—"and the Democratic ticket can't miss this year," he says—he must resign as senator. The governor of Missouri will appoint a successor to serve the balance of his term.

The present governor, Forrest C. Donnell, is a Republican and presumably would replace Truman with a member of that party if he had a chance. If Truman should resign immediately after the general election next Nov. 7, Donnell would have that opportunity.

But the junior senator from Missouri has no such intention. As a Democrat, he counts on Phil Donnelly, Democratic nominee for governor, beating Republican Jean Paul Bradshaw for that office. (Donnell is Republican nominee for (Turn to Page Seven)

RESISTANCE INSIDE POCKET IS CRUMBLING

British Staff Officer In Field Acknowledges Von Kluge Has Extricated Most of His Armor

TEMPO IS STEPPED UP

Rome, Aug. 16—(P)—Allied invasion troops have struck eight miles inland at some points in southern France after taking all initial objectives and establishing themselves firmly, headquarters announced tonight. British and American airborne troops vaulting behind the lines were credited officially with blocking enemy reinforcements. Great fleets of U. S. troop carriers winged supplies and reinforcements by glider and parachute into the airborne bridgehead today.

By GLADWIN HILL
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 16—(AP)—Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge has pulled most of his armor from the dwindling Normandy front, Field dispatches declared today, and stepped up the tempo of his rush under a gauntlet of fire through his Falaise escape gap, narrowed to eight miles.

Allied forces invading southern France drove steadily inland against as yet negligible opposition, further developing the great two-way campaign to liberate France.

A British staff officer in the field acknowledged that Von Kluge had extricated most of his armor from the Normandy pocket. But hundreds of vehicles darting eastward were under heavy air and artillery bombardment. Resistance inside the pocket was crumbling into suicide stands.

The approaching cleanup here gave the Allies a firm hold on the western half of the Seine-Loire quadrangle which extends inland to Paris.

Allied ground troops hammering around the perimeter of the German Seventh Army's salient have halved the size of the area in the past 24 hours and narrowed the escape gap to eight miles or less. Allied planes wrecked hundreds of German vehicles in the Nazis' swift but generally orderly retreat to the east.

It was not known how many Germans were still in the trap. The latest estimate, and it was many hours old, was 50,000.

British and Canadian troops on the north side of the pocket reached Falaise and launched an assault on that city and captured Vassy, 20 miles to the west. American and British troops together sliced off a large section of the western end of the pocket.

Putanges, a major crossing of the Orne river 10 miles west of Argentan was captured widening the southern jaw of the escape gap.

Front dispatches said it was estimated the American Third Army, commanded by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., in a little over two weeks had inflicted nearly 100,000 casualties on the Germans—taken (Turn to Page Seven)

Heat-Baked East May Receive Some Relief Later In Week

By the Associated Press
Easterners and southerners, perspiring unhappily in a protracted above 90-degree hot spell looked hopefully to the west and middle west today where some cooler temperatures indicated relief might reach the heat-baked east by Friday or Saturday.

Minnesota and the Dakotas reported cool weather, while in Chicago thundershowers cut record heat yesterday and were expected to keep temperatures down today.

New York and New England continued to swelter in a week-long heat wave, Boston reported six consecutive days of record breaking temperatures for each day. Maine woods were closed as fires raged through thousands of acres of tinder-dry forests.

But New York Meteorologist Benjamin Parry said low temperatures in the west and middle west meant that cooler weather, originally scheduled for the east today, might be expected Friday.

It was the hottest August ever recorded by the New York weather bureau, and Boston expected that all records in its history for consecutive days of heat would be broken today with a predicted 97 degree temperature.

Little Change On The Italian Front

Rome, Aug. 16—(P)—Eighth Army troops have mopped up German resistance in Empoli, on the south bank of the Arno river 25 airline miles west of Florence, headquarters announced today.

The Italian front, however, remained generally unchanged.

Shelling of Florence by German long-range guns tapered off.

The Allied military government now is feeding three fourths of the population of Florence, it was announced, but in some suburban areas still cut off many thousands are unable to get food.

Marine Shipped Back To Command At Cherry Point

Sergt. Paul L. Morgan, who was picked up a few weeks ago by local police and again in the hands of his countrymen and yesterday when they gathered him up for being AWOL. Morgan was found at a home on Beech street and on instructions from the Marine Corps he was placed on the eastbound train for Cherry Point, N. C. last evening.

Aid was asked of the police by a young man who desired his dog be kept loose from a local booze joint. Appeal of the youth had proven of no avail and the copper obliged. Down on Pennsylvania avenue, west, hot air flew thick and fast on the heated evening atmosphere when a man and woman staged a battle under the evening stars. Fast and furious waged the debate and finally officers quelled the flow of language and sent the couple home.

Loud radios and howling dogs also gave the police some busy minutes during the evening and the official sinner was put on many and sundry.

323 Pints Of Blood Donated On Aug. Visit

The mobile unit of the American Red Cross Blood Bank from Buffalo ended a two-day visit to Warren last evening and left today with a total of 323 pints of blood given by local donors. Tuesday 196 donors appeared, 31 were rejected, leaving 165 to give a pint of blood each. Of this total three were seventh donors—Irvn Poust, James McCool and Miss Helen Honhart. Twelve of the donors came from Tidoute. The average of 162 pints for each of the two days was considered quite satisfactory in view of the humid weather and the rigid tests that now result in a higher percentage of rejections.

It is expected that the next visit will be Monday and Tuesday, September 11th and 12th.

Doughboys Find Brittany One Of the World's Wonderlands

By HAL BOYLE
With the American Troops in Brittany, Aug. 7—(Delayed)—The American breakthrough to Brittany has been even more of a satisfaction to the fighting men on the front than to the reading public back home.

Normandy's hedgerows tired the men, hobbled tanks, facilitated enemy ambushes and cut down observation so much that Doughboys had to fight blindly from pasture to pasture.

We still aren't out of the hedgerow country but they have thinned out considerably.

In wiping out resistance on the Brest peninsula we are helped by the fact there is much rolling farmland to fight through and the enemy isn't so concentrated. Here the Americans are able to use their great reservoir of armor to better advantage.

Brittany itself is one of the world's wonderlands—a scenic and historic province whose rugged people are the backbone and heart of France. No one who has seen the aggressive way in which the peasants and townspeople have pitched in to rid their green and gold land of the Germans can doubt their wish to be free.

Because of the speed of the American armored thrust in isolating the peninsula, Brittany's interior cities have largely been spared devastation such as that which befell Caen, Valognes and St. Lo. But the tale naturally is different in such port cities as St. Malo, Brest and Lorient where Nazis had strong garrisons and chose to slug it out.

Brittany is a fair land with a mild climate and less rain and storm clouds than Normandy. Its beaches are among the most renowned in the world and St. Malo and Dinard have notably fashionable and cosmopolitan winter colonies much visited by continental and English society.

Brittany's simple, hardworking people live by tilling its fertile acres or fishing in the emerald seas that are four-fifths of its boundaries.

In old times it was known as Armorica or "the country upon the sea." Adventurous Bretons are still the greatest fishermen of France, sailing regularly to Newfoundland and Iceland. Aside from shipbuilding and arsenals, there are no manufacturing industries of great importance.

Now it is harvest time in Brittany and armed convoys spearing along the main roads to supply the wide ranging armored columns pass hundreds of men, women and children gathering the grain crop. They harvest by hand, stacking the yellow grain in sheaves, pausing now and then to wave greetings at troops or hospitably offer them a drink of cider or calvados a kind of native apple brandy.

Bretons live simply in sturdy and picturesque old stone homes, many of which still have thatched roofs. They are strongly religious and Brittany is a stronghold of the Catholic church in France. Periodically they wear at festivals colorful old costumes—white caps and lace embroidered dresses for women, low crowned, broad brimmed hats with velvet streamers for men—typical of old Brittany.

These folk costumes are treasured from generation to generation and worn only at ceremonies.

Bretons are racially close to the Welsh and the country was settled largely by Britons who, fleeing from the Picts and Scots, came across the channel and took lands abandoned by the Gauls because of crushing Roman taxes.

Like Britons, the Bretons are known for independence and stubbornness.

Citizens of this locality are using Air Express increasingly, figures released by Air Express Division of Railway Express Agency show. The rise in Air Express shipments received in June, 1944 was 50.0% over those of the same month last year. Those forwarded increased 240.0%. The total rise of inbound and outbound traffic was 194.4%.

This is in keeping with the world wide development of air shipping which, though well under way before Pearl Harbor, has been accelerated tremendously under pressure of war needs. The present 45,000 miles of air routes in the United States are in the process of being expanded many thousands of miles as the airlines are applying to the Civil Aeronautics Board for extensions which will make it possible to serve new parts of the country after the war. Plans for new airports are also on the docket of CAB, at points where they will be of greatest service for domestic and international air travel and shipping. The post war round-the-world routes mapped out by CAB total 140,000 miles.

NO TIME TO LET DOWN

Eric A. Johnston, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce

Winning the war and preparing for peace are complementary actions. We must both quicken victory and be ready for it.

Smashing Allied victories on widely scattered battle fronts emphasize the necessity for immediate government and business measures to prepare for reconversion. But in doing so we must not, we dare not, take our eye off the ball for an instant. There is far more fighting and sacrifice ahead. There are still ahead grim and bloody days that will try our nation's soul.

There is no excuse whatsoever for a let-down on the home front. Any let-down now will cost American lives. Instead, what we must do is to intensify our effort that we may shorten the war and save lives. We must forget about breathing spells and margins and relaxation.

If we begin to desert our posts on the assembly lines for peacetime berths; if we begin to maneuver for places of advantage in the peacetime economy; if we begin to chisel on the war effort for any reason; if we yield to the delusion that victory is so close we can loaf on our jobs, we are betraying our men on the fighting fronts.

At home, ours is the job of providing the sinews for winning the war. That job holds first priority on all of our energies, our thoughts, our actions.

Nothing that we here at home are doing remotely matches what our men are doing over there. The most extreme sacrifices that we make here are minor compared with what they are called upon to give and endure. Let us, then, do nothing that can cause them the least doubt as to the fullness of our support and the intensity of our effort. As between their needs and our preferences there is no room whatever for argument.

We must steel our nerves and fortify our determination to work and work together, with no slacking or fumbling while we have the ball on the 10-yard line in this war.

Today we face a double challenge, to speed victory and to be prepared for peace. We are strong enough and wise enough to meet that challenge.

REPLACEMENTS STILL NEEDED

Major-General Lewis B. Hershey, the Selective Service chief, dropped some more rather confusing remarks the other night in Seattle. He told a group of local draft board members that "we've got the Army practically built," but that the need for replacements was such that "even the men up to 38 are liable to be called."

This seems to put us right back in the muddle that existed before the country's pressing manpower needs were finally reconciled between industry and the armed forces.

Yet we cannot quarrel with the purpose behind the need for replacements. "Some of our boys have been overseas two and three years," General Hershey points out, "and it's time we brought them back." Certainly the return home for many is long overdue.

In a series of advertisements the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania (Esso) is outlining its plans for the post-war period, especially as they pertain to their employees who are in the service. The company states that every one of its employees in the service will get his old job back or one as good or better. The series of advertisements are interesting and should be read by every employer with men in the service.

The best guess on when the war will end is suggested by a summation by General Eisenhower, who remarks: "It is certain that German forces congregated on our front are taking a sound beating, but we are still a long way from the Rhine. It's not that this means the war can't end this year—anything can happen at any time in a crisis like the present—but it's well to remember that Hitler still has formidable forces at his disposal."

We wish that the mercury were like all the rest of us—lacked ambition to even move.

By the way those showers by-pass Warren, it would seem that the borough is a dust bowl.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

Without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.—Hebrews 11:6.

To take up half on trust, and half to try,
Name it not faith, but bungling bigotry.
—Dryden.

Savagery At Its Worst---From Now On

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Ever envy a U. S. senator out on one of those junkies?

Then try stretching a $6-a-day allowance to cover hotel bills, food, laundry and incidentals.

That's all a senator gets when he travels out of Washington as a member of an important committee seeking information on some timely problem.

Members of the War Investigating (Truman) committee have found themselves out-of-pocket anywhere from $100 to $800 at the end of each year's inquiries.

They even lose money on the train trips to and from points of hearings, for their tickets are purchased for them and the $6 a day allowance hardly covers meals, tips and smokes while on the train.

After they reach their destination, the problem becomes more complicated, for their slim allowance must cover the price of the hotel room and everything else.

HUGH FULTON, who has traveled many thousands of miles with the Truman committee as its chief counsel, is convinced that, with an occasional exception, every trip has cost members an appreciable sum.

In normal times, hotel owners, glad to have senators among their guests from the standpoint of prestige, give them special rates when they are on official business. Some, even now, charge them only the $6 they are allowed and take the loss.

But most of the time, the senators have to foot a substantial share of the cost themselves, often at standard rates for everyone.

THIS is part of the story any senator can tell as evidence that his $10,000-a-year salary is anything but big when measured against his expenses.

Washington apartment and hotel rent is high. Yet, in addition to paying rent here, the senator, like his House colleague, must maintain a residence back home. Campaign costs often run into big figures for many.

They, like others, must pay state and federal income taxes.

Every senator must be prepared to have guests in occasionally for dinner or other entertainment to keep up contacts valuable to every congressman.

And only a senator has any idea of the number of persons he has to feed from time to time at lunch. He can't afford to let a visiting constituent go hungry!

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1934

A meeting of the directors of the Outing Club was held last evening in the office of C. D. Cranford and plans for the rebuilding of the club house which was burned some time ago were discussed. No action was taken but the consensus of opinion was that the building should be erected as soon as possible.

Warren, Erie, Corry and Jamestown Rotary Clubs will hold a meeting of their clubs at Midway park August 27th. A basket picnic is being arranged and a large crowd is expected.

Thirty cans of black bass were planted yesterday at East Hickory by the state department of fisheries.

Employees of the Warren Gear Products and their families are enjoying a picnic and outing this afternoon at Oakview Park. There are many features planned for the day and a picnic dinner will be served tonight.

Mrs. McMurren Is Honored By Former Corydon Students At Annual Reunion

Corydon, Aug. 16—The third annual garden party and reunion of the Corydon school took place August 13 at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, when Mrs. Reid, assisted by Mrs. L. R. Stryker, proved a most competent hostess for the delightful affair. Approximately 50 persons attended, with perfect weather adding to the day's enjoyment. A fine dinner was served outdoors at 1:30 o'clock, with guests seated at one long table made attractive with baskets of fruit and garden flowers. Seated at the head of the table was the guest of honor, Mrs. Du-rant L. McMurren, of Edinboro, who, with her husband, the late D. L. McMurren, continues to occupy a warm place in the hearts of pupils and friends whom she served as members of the teachers' faculty of the Corydon High school. With Mrs. McMurren was her daughter, Miss Margaret McMurren, also of Edinboro, and her son, Elmer L. McMurren, and Mrs. McMurren, of New York City.

During the business meeting following the dinner, it was voted to hold all future gatherings the first Sunday in August rather than the second, with Mrs. Rubie Day, Mrs. George Prue and A. M. Kraft named as location committee. Of interest was another item, election of officers, which resulted in Mrs. Romola Clawson Spetz, of Dundick, N. Y., being chosen as president; George Black, Kibuck, vice president; Miss Mayme Marsh, Warren, secretary and treasurer. A collection amount to $12.55 was turned over to the newly-elected treasurer.

Unable to be present, but sending greetings that were read, were Mrs. Thomas Keough and her sister, the former Miss Florence Fitzpatrick, Buffalo; Mrs. Minnie Griffin Connolly, Olean; Mrs. Howard Anderson, New York. Thrilling and novel was the way taken by Mrs. Lucile Wade and Mr. Wade to extend greetings when they circled the scene of the gathering by plane—their "Happy Reunion" voiced from the skies was reported distinctly audible—and from what we gather concerning Sunday's affair, it was just that—happy reunion.

Those from away in attendance included Mrs. D. L. McMurren, Miss Margaret McMurren, Edinboro; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McMurren, New York; Miss Nellie Lounsbury (honorary member) accompanied by Miss Inez Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mills, Mrs. Mary Kerwin, Mrs. Gerald Fleming, Miss Marilyn Gertrude Joy, Miss Mayme Marsh, Miss Nellie Marsh, Miss William Stryker, Warren; Mrs. O. A. Kightlinger, Kinzua; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spetz, Dundick; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, Panama Canal Zone; Homer Marsh, Farmers Valley; Mrs. Julia Marsh Smith, San Bernardino, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. George Black, Kibuck; Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Sears, Miss Alberta Sears, Akley; Mrs. Margaret Morrison Turney, Stow, N. Dr. VerMilyea
Recounts Days
In Medicine

Members of the County Medical Society meeting Tuesday afternoon at the YWCA activities building were addressed by Dr. C. H. VerMilyea, of Russell, in a humorous recital of some of his experiences in 47 years of practice in and about Russell, dealing particularly with the branch of medicine known as obstetrics.

His remarks showed his record for twins is far above the average, about one pair to every 54 births as against one to 80 stated by authorities.

He stated Warren county is not free from hoveys, even in the farming district, and many instances were recorded of children born in manglers and worse, under most unsanitary conditions, but with mother, child and even father "doing well."

Twenty-one members attended the meeting and dinner which followed. On the committee were Doctors Elizabeth Beatty, O. S. Brown, Frank Buckingham, E. S. Briggs and L. E. Chapman.

Western Union

The Certificate of Appreciation of the United States Army Signal Corps has been awarded to the Western Union Telegraph Company for its "patriotic service to our country in the world-wide conflict," it was announced today by C. S. Burnett, local manager of the telegraph company.

The certificate was presented by Major General Harry C. Ingles, Chief Signal Officer, and was received on behalf of the telegraph company personnel by A. N. Williams, president.

In announcing the award, General Ingles stated: "Western Union's speed and co-operation in furnishing critically needed semi-automatic telegraph equipment, training its Washington operating personnel in Army teletypewriter procedure, establishing the Washington-London Varioplex, supplying ocean cable apparatus, and making available trained technicians to serve as Army officers and enlisted personnel, have materially aided the Signal Corps in its gigantic task of furnishing to the United States Army the world's greatest military communications system."

WARNING

The forest fire situation in northwestern Pennsylvania, due to the present prolonged dry spell, is acute. Unless rain is forthcoming within the next two or three days, we will be faced with a potential catastrophe.

All persons residing in forested areas and whose business or pleasure takes them there are requested to use extreme care in handling fire. A few simple rules faithfully observed will avoid a calamity.

1. When smoking in cars, do not throw burning material from cars. Use your ash tray.

2. Best policy is not to smoke in the woods. But if you must, be sure your match or smoking material is dead out before you drop it.

3. Do not build fires in or near a wooded area.

4. Do not burn brush or grass where sparks can reach dry grass or wooded lands.

Buffalo Colored Giants Are Billed at Wilder Field Sunday

Welcome news to Warren lovers of baseball is the announcement that the Buffalo Colored Giants will play a return engagement here, meeting the National Forge at Wilder Field next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Those planning to attend should note the earlier starting time, which was decided upon by many fans who have engagements in the late afternoon.

The Colored Giants made a big hit when they played the Struthers Wells at Russell Field earlier in the month, since which time many have been urging a game with the Forge. They come here with an enviable record against some of the outstanding teams in the country. The club has scored victories over such fast colored teams as the Cincinnati Clowns of the Negro American League, the Detroit Motor City Club, Niagara Falls Stars, Welland Atlas Steel club, Oswego Zets, Cortland Cobras and Auburn Falcons besides winning 12 while losing 4 games against the best semi-pro clubs in western New York state.

For the starting lineup it is expected the Giants will have Denard at third base; McQueen, cf; Calloway, ss; Judson, c; Johnson, 2b; Burton, lf; Brock, 1b; Abrams, p; Momen, p and Savage, rf.

"Pete" McQueen, who will be seen in centerfield starred for the Chicago American Giants of the Negro American league for several years. He is an exceptionally fast boy and packs a potent stick at the plate.

Frank Calloway playing shortstop will not be new to the Warren fans as he appeared in Warren several times with the World's Champion Homestead Grays baseball club.

Probably the feature attraction that the Giants carry is Alexander Abrams, who will more than likely start the pitching assignment against the Iron Workers. He is advertised as the oldest player in negro baseball having just passed his 50th birthday. Despite his age, he is rated as one of the best pitchers in colored baseball.

Band Concert To Be Feature Of 'Red' Swanson Day Game

The Struthers Wells management has announced that plans for "Red" Swanson day in Warren on Sunday, August 27th are nearing completion.

The two main events, of course, are the band concert which will start at 2:30 p. m. and the baseball game which will start immediately after the concert at 3:15 p. m.

The band concert will be played by the Struthers Wells band which will be augmented by some of the best musicians in the town from other organizations and by two soloists, the names of whom will be made public later. The program for the band concert will also be published in these columns at a later date.

The Ironworkers feel that the game following the band concert will be the highlight in baseball in Warren this season as they have been unusually fortunate in securing "Huck" Geary's Stars and Stripes baseball club of Niagara Falls, N. Y. This club is coming to Warren at the greatest expense yet paid any team in Warren this season and if advance notices are anywhere nearly correct, the Warren fans are in for a real treat as this team holds victories over the outstanding teams in New York state including the Buffalo Colored Giants, Utica, N. Y., Oswego and Lockport to mention a few.

It will be remembered that "Huck" Geary, himself, was to be the regular shortstop for the Pittsburgh Pirates this season and although he started the season and was going at a good clip, he chose to come to Buffalo and do war work until after the war.

As until after the war, Warren fans will have the opportunity to help celebrate the fiftieth birthday of Warren's most outstanding baseball player and manager, a man that has probably done more toward furthering baseball in Warren than any other person, "Red" Swanson.

Fifty Years With "Red" Swanson

After "Red" had received a certain amount of seasoning in the City League, he made good on the High School team of 1912. Here he played as a regular shortstop. After the spring season of the High School schedule was played, he was promptly signed by Day's Magazine team in the City League. The 1912 season ended his career as an amateur at the ripe old age of eighteen.

"Red's" first professional play started when "Bill" Haslet signed him to a contract to play independent ball at Chelsea, Okla. Although Oklahoma was a long ways away from home in those days he played the 1913 season there, but when the next season started he had signed with Connellsville, Pa. in the old Pennsylvania and West Virginia League. This league opened the season but broke up after about two weeks of play. The little redhead came home and finished the season out with the famous old Butterkrust team. But that's another story.

TO EXAMINE GRIDDERS
Dr. E. S. Briggs will be at the high school on August 21, 22 and 23 from three to five p. m. to examine all football candidates for the coming season. Players are asked to obtain travelling certificates and eligibility cards from Mr. Leidig on one of these dates.

Vet Sports Writer Leaving District

Johnny Johnson, veteran Meadville sports editor who has been closely identified with scholastic sports in District 10, for many years, will make his departure from Meadville this week to join the staff of the Springfield News-Papers, Inc., at Springfield, Mo.

Johnson had been in the employ of the Tribune Publishing Co., of Meadville, for the past 21 years. A native of Titusville, he gained his first newspaper experience on the Titusville Herald.

During his tenure as sports editor at Meadville, Johnson served as the official statistician of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Football conference, which embodied all District 10 football schools.

PONY LEAGUE

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(P.) The Bradford Blue Wings climbed out of the PONY League cellar for the first time since early in the season by taking both ends of a double header with Wellsville last night. The score was the same in both games—5-3.

Wellsville slid down to last place.

Olean Pitcher Harry Springer held the Hornell Pirates to three hits as the Oleaners spanked the Pirates 8-0.

The Jamestown Falcons nosed out the Lockport Cubs, 7-6, while the Batavia Clippers collected 13 hits to sink the Erie Sailors, 4-1.

Today's games: Batavia at Erie.

Outing Club Scores Again In Floor Show

The Outing Club, one of the cool spots of the vicinity fanned by river breezes has come into its own in a big way during the past few weeks. Every evening the grounds are filled with picnic parties and the fireplaces and tables are getting a big play while the crackle of sizzling weiners resound in the land. In the early evening the boats of the club are all busy and many bathers enjoy the water of the river.

Arrangements for the picnic next Sunday are going forward in fine shape and Buck Scallise has been chasing chickens for the past few days and has rounded up some beauties that will be barbecued for the dinner at 5:30. The sports committee has arranged a good program. Only members of the club will be permitted and all must have a picnic ticket which may be purchased at the downtown club or at the gate. No guests will be entertained.

The floor show this week is just a wee bit above par and is headed by two zanies Good and Goodie who have a line of fast patter and some gags that are new. These boys are just one jump ahead of the guy with the butterfly net and keep the crowd in an uproar. Diana Clifton, one of those gals who just could be a Powers model, if she so desired, as she has the curves where they ought to be and a beautiful face and how she can sing! Her selections go over big and Bob and Maxine Gates in spite of the heat are possessed of vim, vigor and vitality and give out with some comedy dances that score.

All in all the Outing Club right now is a swan place to come home to.

CUPID'S CASTAWAY

Chapter 10

AS THE car swung out of Boxwood Avenue, there was a lone pedestrian under the street light. Lucky leaned forward. That stocky figure, hatless, the wide ridged cheekbones, the thick wavy hair. . . . He turned quickly and walked away from them. Lucky made an exclamation of surprise.

"What is it?" Di asked. "You startled me."

"I'm sorry. For a minute I thought that man was Joe Breslin."

Di's head snapped toward Lucky. "Joe Breslin?"

Lucky saw the milk truck swing out of a side street in their path. She put her feet against the floor board and pointed. "Watch out!"

The car swerved wide, careening on two wheels. The truck's brakes squealed. They missed it by inches.

Di wet her lips with her tongue and laughed shakily. "Silly of me. Who is this Joe Breslin? What made you think it was he?"

Lucky stared back over her shoulder, but the man had disappeared. She said, "Don't you remember? I told you about coming up on the train with him. He lives on his sloop in the Islands. He's pretty old—around forty, I expect—and he used to drink. But he's all right now." She looked back again. "That probably wasn't Joe anyway. He didn't say anything about coming here."

Di said, "Probably not," and was silent the rest of the way to the station.

Lucky, absorbed in her own misery, didn't notice. Yet she remembered Di's silence, and her white hands gripping the wheel at mention of Joe's name. . . .

But that was a month later, in far away Nassau.

Lucky had been home three weeks of that month. The Miami docks were the deserted air of mid-June, only a few boats scattered along each of the thin wooden fingers reaching out into the pale turquoise of Biscayne Bay. At the far end of the outside dock, Blue Dolphin lay in deep water.

The two masts gleamed with fresh varnish, and the furled sails were dazzling in the morning sun. She looked sleek and ready for the cruise to Nassau—that cruise planned half in jest at Uncle Frank's, but for which May and Ben Alan were arriving this afternoon.

Lucky—in yellow denim shorts and halter, chamoising down bright work—was ready, too. She'd spent a hard grueling time since she got home, crowding into weeks what most girls took years to learn. About clothes, and dancing, and how to do her hair, her nails. She'd driven herself relentlessly, glad to be too tired to brood over Thad.

Thad!

Ever since Uncle Frank's telephone call last night, Thad's name had been a tumultuous cry inside her. He and Uncle Frank had flown down on the utility case. They were in Miami. They'd be over this morning.

But she couldn't see him! She wouldn't! The thought of him was like a wildfire in her blood. Now, when she'd only just begun to forget him a little, to see him and have to start all over the painful step-by-step discipline of her heart? She wouldn't!

ON THE dock, Cappy, his round little body bent scrubbing the dinghy, looked down at her work. He straightened, pushing his battered captain's cap back on his grizzled head, pulling thoughtfully at his mustache. The crease in his leathery old forehead deepened.

"You're skippin' more'n you're hittin', Lady." He only called her "Lady" when he was upset.

"I'm hurrying, Cappy," she defended, keeping the nervous edge out of her voice.

He spat reflectively over the dock into the bay. "Hurrying why? We don't sail till five o'clock this afternoon."

"I have an errand up Flagler Street. I must have my hair done!"

He looked at the smooth brown coiffe with its neat roll of curls. "Lucky," he said mildly, "you ain't been able to be successful to me since you was three and told me the castor oil fell overboard."

"Cappy, you don't understand. Let's not talk about it. Anyway I have to hurry!"

He bent over the dinghy then, but he wasn't through talking. "Looks like to me it'd be better manners if you stayed till your uncle came this mornin'."

She hesitated. Cappy was right, but she couldn't do it. She said, "Just explain to him that I waited. Tell him it was a previous engagement. Anything!" Panic pressed against her.

Cappy made a broad shot in the dark. "There wouldn't be nobody comin' with your uncle, would there?"

He bent over the dinghy then, but he wasn't through talking. "Looks like to me it'd be better manners if you stayed till your uncle came this mornin'."

PRISONERS BEING BROUGHT IN IN LARGE BATCHES

By GLADWIN HILL

London, Aug. 16.—(P)—The Allies showered steel and surrender leaflets on the German Seventh Army's pell-mell retreat near Falaise today and, by Berlin account, hurled an American column within 40 miles of Paris, threatening a new encirclement of fleeing German troops.

German broadcasts declared the American Third Army, in a lightning 60-mile eastward drive, was battling near Dreux and Chartres, only 40 miles from the capital.

These armored spearheads, driving toward the Seine, carried the potential menace of swinging behind the enemy and bottling him up between the river and the Atlantic coast. Seine bridges have been knocked out by dive-bombing.

Field dispatches declared Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge had pulled most of his armor from the vanishing Normandy front, but his hatch below Falaise had been sliced to eight miles. Possibly 50,000 Nazis still were fighting rearguard actions within the dwindling Normandy pocket.

Both the German high command and American radio broadcasts said Americans of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army had plunged 60 miles eastward from Alencon and were battling on a 20-mile sector between Dreux and Chartres. Patton won Alencon in his drive northward from Le Mans into Argentan, where he brought in the southern jaw of the pincers on Falaise.

Canadians on the north reached the outskirts of Falaise, and opened an assault on that communications town.

Total German casualties in the western France debacle approached the 300,000 mark. Included in the shower of surrender leaflets were pictures of German officers capitulating at Cherbourg. These were designed to illustrate the type of treatment the enemy could expect.

The Germans were running a fiery gauntlet of bombs and shells near Falaise.

(CBS Correspondent Eric Sevareid reported that Allied troops were fighting last evening for St. Tropez, on the gulf of the same name midway between Cannes and Toulon.

Although details of this new thrust against Hitler's Europe were cloaked in official silence, it became known that the Frejus area, 33 miles southwest of Nice, and Cap Negre, 28 miles east of Toulon, were two of the points where the thousands of assault troops, mainly American and French, began going ashore yesterday morning.

Dispatches from correspondents referred to three separate Allied beachheads, but the location of a third was not disclosed. Stephen Barber, Associated Press war correspondent, said the landings covered a 40-mile stretch of the coast.

Unless the Germans are able to mobilize a much greater defensive force than that so far encountered it appeared certain that the Allied landing force, which was spearheaded by veteran American troops and French assault units, would quickly extend its hold.

Allied headquarters said in a special announcement last night that the beachheads were extended and widened successfully yesterday against only sporadic enemy opposition and that "some of the high ground back of the beaches is in our hands."

The earliest official disclosures placed the landings on a broad front on the coast between Marseille and Nice, but one specific location was given last night with (Turn to Page Seven)

Heat-Baked East May Receive Some Relief Later In Week

By the Associated Press

Easterners and southerners, perspiring unhappily in a protracted above 90-degree hot spell looked hopefully to the west and middle west today where some cooler temperatures indicated relief might reach the heat-baked east by Friday or Saturday.

Minnesota and the Dakotas reported cool weather, while in Chicago thundershowers cut record heat yesterday and were expected to keep temperatures down today. New York and New England continued to swelter in a week-long heat wave, Boston reported

2,000 Planes Hit European Installations

London, Aug. 16.—(P)—Another great American armada of 2,000 planes, half heavy bombers smashed today at aircraft and oil plants and airbases in Germany which were striking over the attacked enemy troops and defenses on the north and south French battlefields.

Striking from Italy, unescorted Flying Fortresses bombed strategic rail bridges in southern France without encountering German planes while Liberators bombed a German chemical works at Friedrichshafen.

Targets all were in the Leipzig and Magdeburg area in the very heart of Germany.

Berlin was bombed last night with two-ton blockbusters with which RAF Mosquitos disturbed the Nazi capital's sleep.

The German radio said the Reich also was being penetrated by American flights from Italy which were striking over the Alps onto the Tyrol and Bavaria.

This was the fourth straight day in which the U. S. Eighth Air Force had sent 1,000 or more Flying Fortresses and Liberators against continental objectives.

Underground Forces Rising In Swelling Tide of Revolt

By the Associated Press

London, Aug. 16.—Underground forces, inspired by the Allied landings along the Riviera and the growing German rout in Normandy, were reported rising everywhere throughout France today in a swelling tide of revolt against Nazi forces which have held the French people in bondage for more than four years.

Dispatches from Spain quoted advices from the French border as saying that the Maquis, acting under pre-arranged plans, had launched a series of attacks upon German garrisons in southern France as soon as they received news of the Allied landings.

Serious German resistance was expected at Limoges, these advices said, but the other towns mentioned were reported manned by garrisons of less than 1,000 men each.

Vichy, meanwhile, was reported in a turmoil, with collaborationists attempting to flee the city and armed guards patrolling the streets. In Paris, the populace was said to have gone wild with joy at news of the Allied landings along the Riviera, and some reports from the French border said sporadic fighting had broken out in the streets between collaborationists and patriots who assembled in the streets singing the "Marseillaise."

Allied headquarters said in a special announcement last night that the beachheads were extended and widened successfully yesterday against only sporadic enemy opposition and that "some of the high ground back of the beaches is in our hands."

six consecutive days of record breaking temperatures for each day. Maine woods were closed as fires raged through thousands of acres of tinder-dry forests.

But New York Meteorologist Benjamin Parry said low temperatures in the west and midwest meant that cooler weather, originally scheduled for the east today, might be expected Friday.

It was the hottest August ever recorded by the New York weather bureau, and Boston expected that all records in its history for consecutive days of heat would be broken today with a predicted 97 degree temperature.

Both Ends Of Jap Screen In Pacific Raided

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 16.—(P)—Japan's screen of Pacific islands has been bombed again at both its ends and near the center—at the Kuriles in the north, two 700 miles south of Tokyo, and the Spice Islands on the equator.

Adverse weather limited the New Guinea-Carolines sector, but far to the west, heavy bombers from China bombed Takao, Formosa, and sank three freighters between Formosa and the China coast, to add to hammer blows from every direction.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that Liberator and Mitchell bombers, continuing attacks which have pulverized Halmahera as a Japanese base, raided both Halmahera and Ternate in the Spice Islands repeatedly Monday, through heavy anti-aircraft fire. The bombs set warehouses afire and exploded ammunition dumps.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced meanwhile that Army

Little Change On The Italian Front

Rome, Aug. 16.—(P)—Eighth Army troops have mopped up German resistance in Empoli, on the south bank of the Arno river 25 air miles west of Florence, headquarters announced today.

The Italian front, however, remained generally unchanged.

Shelling of Florence by German long-range guns tapered off.

The Allied military government now is feeding three fourths of the population of Florence. It was announced, but in some suburban areas still cut off many thousands are unable to get food.

Smethport Has Coupon Robbery

Smethport, Aug. 16.—(P)—Police today continued a search for a thief who stole more than 50,000 tire, sugar and gasoline ration coupons from a vault in the basement of the McKean county courthouse.

District Attorney Claude Shattuck said there was no sign of forcible entry to the building. Only the lock on the vault was smashed.

The loot included 499 tire certificates, 10,000 sugar certificates each good for 25 pounds and 15,000 B and C, 5,000 T and 21,758 R gasoline coupons, Shattuck said.

THREATENS PRESIDENT

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—(P)—Nicholas A. Tsoucalas, 39-year-old Greek restaurant worker, is held in $10,000 bail on charges of sending threatening and obscene letters to President Roosevelt, U. S. Secret Service agents said Tsoucalas, irked at being forced to serve a prison sentence while awaiting deportation in 1941, wrote he would "burn the constitution and bury the president forever."

Liberators Stage Assault In Pescadores

Chungking, Aug. 16.—(P)—American Liberators bombed the Japanese naval base of Mako in the Pescadores islands today in the first blow at those enemy islands between Formosa and China.

The Formosa harbor of Takao in the southwest portion of the big Japanese island was bombed at night by Liberators. All the attack planes were from Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's U. S. 14th Air Force.

No details were given on the Mako raid.

Mako lies about 1,700 miles southwest of Tokyo and 400 miles north of the Philippines.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in the Cairo pronouncement said the Pescadores would be returned to China, from which Japanese seized them, after the Nipponese are defeated.

Soldier Vote Law Draws Criticism

Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today the war department had created "a get-out-the-vote organization that would be the envy of any political organization in the country" in its instructions to officers on carrying out provisions of the soldier voting law.

The instructions, Taft said, direct that company or unit voting officers be appointed to personally "assist" troops in obtaining federal or state ballots for the November election by supplying information and ballot application forms.

His comment followed senate passage yesterday of amendments specifically authorizing sale at home and abroad, books, magazines and other publications carrying political news and opinion.

W. P. B. Chief Is Summoned By Committee

Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—Donald M. Nelson, who thinks the country can get back to pre-war standards of civilian production even while Japan keeps fighting, was called before a senate committee today with a "tell us more" assignment.

The War Production Board chairman was invited, said Chairman M. M. (D-NY) of the war investigating committee, to supply the "low down" on whether there is any scarcity now, or in sight, for the armed forces.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) added that "we want to know more" about Nelson's plans for making things civilians use. The plans on some occasions have been strongly resisted by the military.

Nelson told a news conference yesterday that conquest of Germany will be the signal for hiding output of civilian goods to the level of 1939, adding that production in that year was close to the record set in 1941.

Such an increase would mean 30 percent more consumer products than are being manufactured at present, Nelson said.

He estimated that a 40 percent cutback of munitions production will follow the German war, implementing the interim reconversion program.

SHORTAGE OF ICE IN HAZLETON REPORTED

Hazleton, Aug. 16.—(P)—With ice manufacturing facilities unable to keep up the demand, Hazleton is experiencing an ice shortage due to the prolonged heat wave.

Dealers are refusing to serve new customers and are limiting sales to residential consumers.

One dealer said his sales last Saturday were the highest since he started in the ice business over 20 years ago.

Closing of Pools In State Suggested

Harrisburg, Aug. 16.—(P)—Health Secretary Dr. A. H. Stewart suggested today that all Pennsylvania swimming pools be closed as the state's infantile paralysis outbreak spread into a 44th county.

Thirty-four new cases of the disease boosted to 364 the number of persons stricken this year compared with 22 in 1943. Twenty deaths have been reported to the health department.

"Swimming pools ought to all be closed," said Dr. Stewart. "Children ought to be warned about swimming in streams because of pollution."

The official said he did not expect the peak of the outbreak until the middle of September.

Pennsylvania had 700 to 800 cases of infantile paralysis in 1941.

SMOKED FISH GOING UP

Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—A number of kinds of cured and smoked fish will cost an average of 10 cents a pound more at retail under a revised schedule of ceiling prices announced today by the Office of Price Administration. The new schedule fixes dollars-and-cents ceilings at the processor's level, allowing increases effective Aug. 21 which will be passed on at retail shortly thereafter.

ALL-OUT BID FOR WARSAW IS LAUNCHED

Destruction of 32 Nazi Tanks and 800 Troops In Counter-Attacks at Praga

PLANS ARE COMPLETED

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Aug. 16.—(P)—The Red Army appeared today to be making its real, all-out bid for Warsaw against bitter resistance in the Praga district just across the board and swift Vistula from the besieged Polish capital.

Another menace to the German defense system increased below East Prussia, where Soviet troops were driving through a 15-mile defense belt toward the German rail center of Lyck in the east Prussian Masurian Lake region.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's army group has been with in gunshot of Warsaw since late July. For the first time in many days, the Soviet communiqué mentioned the Warsaw battle, disclosing the destruction of 32 Nazi tanks and 800 troops in a counter-attack in the battle of Praga.

Rokossovsky has completed his assault plans, built up reserves, strengthened his communications and eliminated a strong German threat to his right flank and today was striking for the heart of the enemy defense zone before Warsaw. Inications were that the struggle on the east side of the Vistula was in its final stage.

The Russians announced at midnight that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's army group which had taken 1,500 square miles west of the Vistula in the area 100 miles below Warsaw and 35 from Krakow had killed 140,000 Germans and captured 23,374 in a month ending Aug. 12.

While only a frontal battle for Warsaw was reported in the Praga area, the Germans were in a precarious position and faced flank blows from the north and south as well.

A Soviet communiqué said the Germans succeeded in forcing a wedge into the Russian positions but "by blows from the flanks the Soviet units threw back the enemy and restored the situation."

The effort to relieve Warsaw was one of many counterattacks to which the German high command committed irreplaceable reserves yesterday, others striking vainly at Russian armies near the East Prussian front in Lithuania and west of the Vistula.

PLAN ORGANIZATION FOR WORLD SECURITY

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—Creation of a world security organization along lines to be laid down at the four-power meetings here this month probably will eliminate the need for a general peace conference and a catch-all peace treaty, such as the Versailles treaty, after this war.

Instead of numerous and difficult problems of making a just and lasting peace are expected to be turned over to the projected post-war version of the United Nations for both settlement and maintenance.

American officials argue that it would be logical to set up in coming months an organization to preserve peace, yet deny it the right to make that peace in the first place.

Twenty German prisoners of war delivered to CCC Camp

Twenty German prisoners of war under guard of about 30 U. S. Troops rolled through Warren yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock and were taken to Camp 13 of the CCC on Bull Hill, near Sheffield. They were left there by the truck convoy together with quantities of supplies and the truck convoy rolled back into Warren.

The trucks were parked on Pennsylvania avenue, west and attracted much attention while the crews ate supper here. One soldier in one truck reclined on an army cot and was said to have been suffering from malaria.

The small group which arrived yesterday wore the traditional blue uniform of war prisoners with a large "P-W" on the back of the shirt. The twenty men will con-

Truman Has Plan To Save Senate Seat

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—Senator Harry S. Truman figured out today how, if elected vice president, he could take office without costing his party a Missouri senate seat.

It's all done with calendars provided—and this is important in the figuring—that the Democratic party carries Missouri and the nation November 7.

Truman's senate term has two and a half more years to run. If elected vice president on the Democratic ticket—"and the Democratic ticket can't miss this year," he says—he must resign as senator. The governor of Missouri will appoint a successor to serve the balance of his term.

The present governor, Forrest C. Donnell, is a Republican and presumably would replace Truman with a member of that party if he had a chance. If Truman should resign immediately after the general election next Nov. 7, Donnell would have that opportunity.

But the junior senator from Missouri has no such intention. As a Democrat, he counts on Phil Donnelly, Democratic nominee for governor, beating Republican Jean Paul Bradshaw for that office. (Donnell is Republican nominee for (Turn to Page Seven)

PENNSYLVANIA FLIERS IN THRILLING BATTLE

A U. S. Fighter Base in England, Aug. 16.—(P)—Eleven German fighter planes were downed by 16 U. S. Mustangs today in a 20-minute battle that raged from treetop level to heights of more than three miles.

Twenty ME-109's were preparing to attack a formation of heavy bombers near Magdeburg when the Mustang squadron of Maj. John I. Elder, Jr., Ebersburg, Pa., dove into them. Elder scored a double kill.

Pilots scoring singles include: Lt. Kenneth Michaels, St. Petersburg, Pa.

PACK FOR CHRISTMAS

Unemployment Pay Bill Causes Rift

Washington, Aug. 16.—(P)—A group of house members, backed by organized labor, called for a vote today before deciding whether they would abandon or carry on their fight for an unemployment compensation bill under which state payments would be augmented by the government.

The house now has before it the senate-approved legislation sponsored by Senator George (D-Ga.) which would confine the unemployment payments to the states. However, there had been pressed in the senate a measure to bring payments up to $25 a week through joint payments by the state and national governments.

Today, Rep. Celler (D-NY), the leader of house forces which are seeking to replace the senate bill with the federal-state measure, said their strategy would be determined after a meeting tomorrow of about 50 "liberals" who favor federal aid in the unemployment compensation program.

RESISTANCE INSIDE POCKET IS CRUMBLING

British Staff Officer In Field Acknowledges Von Kluge Has Extricated Most of His Armor

TEMPO IS STEPPED UP

Rome, Aug. 16.—(P)—Allied invasion troops have struck eight miles inland at some points in southern France after taking all initial objectives and establishing themselves firmly, headquarters announced tonight. British and American airborne troops vaulting behind the lines were credited officially with blocking enemy reinforcements. Great fleets of U. S. troop carriers winged supplies and reinforcements by glider and parachute into the airborne bridgehead today.

Both the German high command and American radio broadcasts said Americans of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army had plunged 60 miles eastward from Alencon and were battling on a 20-mile sector between Dreux and Chartres. Patton won Alencon in his drive northward from Le Mans into Argentan, where he brought in the southern jaw of the pincers on Falaise.

Canadians on the north reached the outskirts of Falaise, and opened an assault on that communications town.

Total German casualties in the western France debacle approached the 300,000 mark. Included in the shower of surrender leaflets were pictures of German officers capitulating at Cherbourg. These were designed to illustrate the type of treatment the enemy could expect.

The Germans were running a fiery gauntlet of bombs and shells near Falaise.

(CBS Correspondent Eric Sevareid reported that Allied troops were fighting last evening for St. Tropez, on the gulf of the same name midway between Cannes and Toulon.

Although details of this new thrust against Hitler's Europe were cloaked in official silence, it became known that the Frejus area, 33 miles southwest of Nice, and Cap Negre, 28 miles east of Toulon, were two of the points where the thousands of assault troops, mainly American and French, began going ashore yesterday morning.

Dispatches from correspondents referred to three separate Allied beachheads, but the location of a third was not disclosed. Stephen Barber, Associated Press war correspondent, said the landings covered a 40-mile stretch of the coast.

Unless the Germans are able to mobilize a much greater defensive force than that so far encountered it appeared certain that the Allied landing force, which was spearheaded by veteran American troops and French assault units, would quickly extend its hold.

The earliest official disclosures placed the landings on a broad front on the coast between Marseille and Nice, but one specific location was given last night with (Turn to Page Seven)

Easterners and southerners, perspiring unhappily in a protracted above 90-degree hot spell looked hopefully to the west and middle west today where some cooler temperatures indicated relief might reach the heat-baked east by Friday or Saturday.

Minnesota and the Dakotas reported cool weather, while in Chicago thundershowers cut record heat yesterday and were expected to keep temperatures down today. New York and New England continued to swelter in a week-long heat wave, Boston reported six consecutive days of record breaking temperatures for each day. Maine woods were closed as fires raged through thousands of acres of tinder-dry forests.

But New York Meteorologist Benjamin Parry said low temperatures in the west and midwest meant that cooler weather, originally scheduled for the east today, might be expected Friday.

It was the hottest August ever recorded by the New York weather bureau, and Boston expected that all records in its history for consecutive days of heat would be broken today with a predicted 97 degree temperature.

Marine Shipped Back To Command At Cherry Point

Sergt. Paul L. Morgan, who was picked up a few weeks ago by local police and again in the hands of his countrymen and yesterday when they gathered him up for being AWOL. Morgan was found at a home on Beech street and on instructions from the Marine Corps he was placed on the eastbound train for Cherry Point, N. C. last evening.

Aid was asked of the police by a young man who desired his dad pried loose from a local booze joint. Appeal of the youth had proven of no avail and the coppers obliged. Down on Pennsylvania avenue, west, hot air flew thick and fast on the heated evening atmosphere when a man and woman staged a battle under the evening stars. Fast and furious waged the debate and finally officers quelled the flow of language and sent the couple home.

Loud radios and howling dogs also gave the police some busy minutes during the evening and the official siren was put on many and sundry.

Doughboys Find Brittany One Of the World's Wonderlands

By HAL BOYLE
With the American Troops in Brittany, Aug. 7—(Delayed)—The American breakthrough to Brittany has been even more of a satisfaction to the fighting men on the front than to the reading public back home.

Normandy's hedgerows tired the men, hobbled tanks, facilitated enemy ambushes and cut down observation so much that Doughboys had to fight blindly from pasture to pasture.

We still aren't out of the hedgerow country but they have thinned out considerably.

In wiping out resistance on the Breton peninsula we are helped by the fact there is much rolling farmland to fight through and the enemy isn't so concentrated. Here the Americans are able to use their great reservoir of armor to better advantage.

Brittany itself is one of the world's wonderlands—a scenic and historic province whose rugged people are the backbone and heart of France. No one who has seen the aggressive way in which the peasants and townspeople have pitched in to rid their green and gold land of the Germans can doubt their wish to be free.

Because of the speed of the American armored thrust in isolating the peninsula, Brittany's interior cities have largely been spared devastation such as that which befell Caen, Valognes and St. Lo. But the tale naturally is different in such port cities as St. Malo, Brest and Lorient where Nazis had strong garrisons and chose to slug it out.

Brittany is a fair land, with a mild climate and less rain and storm clouds than Normandy. Its beaches are among the most renowned in the world and St. Malo and Dinard have notably fashionable and cosmopolitan winter colonies much visited by continental and English society.

Brittany's simple, hardworking people live by tilling its fertile acres or fishing in the emerald seas that are four-fifths of its boundaries.

In old times it was known as Armorica or "the country upon the sea." Adventurous Bretons are still the greatest fishermen of France, sailing regularly to New foundland and Iceland. Aside from shipbuilding and arsenals, there are no manufacturing industries of great importance.

Now it is harvest time in Brittany and armed convoys spearing along the main roads to supply the wide ranging armored columns pass hundreds of men, women and children gathering the grain crop. They harvest by hand, stacking the yellow grain in sheaves, pausing now and then to wave greetings at troops or hospitably offer them a drink of cider or calvados a kind of native apple brandy.

Bretons live simply in sturdy and picturesque old stone homes, many of which still have thatched roofs. They are strongly religious and Brittany is a stronghold of the Catholic church in France. Periodically they wear at festivals colorful old costumes—white caps and lace embroidered dresses for women, low crowned, broad brimmed hats with velvet streamers for men—typical of old Brittany.

These folk costumes are treasured from generation to generation and worn only at ceremonies.

Bretons are racially close to the Welsh and the country was settled largely by Britons who, fleeing from the Picts and Scots, came across the channel and took lands abandoned by the Gauls because of crushing Roman taxes.

Like Britons, the Bretons are known for independence and stub-

Cigarettes may be coffin nails to some folks, but the urge for a smoke at the right moment saved the life of Sgt. boresness. That is why the Nazis never were able to take them completely over—and why German soldiers now prefer surrendering to American troops than chance the mercy of the gun-wielding Breton resistance fighters.

Air Express Increases In This Locality

Citizens of this locality are using Air Express increasingly, figures released by Air Express Division of Railway Express Agency show. The rise in Air Express shipments over those of the same month last year. Those forwarded increased 240%. The total rise of inbound and outbound traffic was 194.4%.

This is in keeping with the world wide development of air shipping which, though well under way before Pearl Harbor, has been accelerated tremendously under pressure of war needs. The present 45,000 miles of air routes in the United States are in the process of being expanded many thousands of miles as the airlines are applying to the Civil Aeronautics Board for extensions which will make it possible to serve new parts of the country after the war. Plans for new airports are also on the docket of CAB, at points where they will be of greatest service for domestic and international air travel and shipping. The post war round-the-world routes mapped out by CAB total 140,000 miles.

NO TIME TO LET DOWN

Eric A. Johnston, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce

Winning the war and preparing for peace are complementary actions. We must both quicken victory and be ready for it.

Smashing Allied victories on widely scattered battle fronts emphasize the necessity for immediate government and business measures to prepare for reconversion. But in doing so we must not, we dare not, take our eye off the ball for an instant. There is far more fighting and sacrifice ahead. There are still ahead grim and bloody days that will try our nation's soul.

There is no excuse whatsoever for a let-down on the home front. Any let-down now will cost American lives. Instead, what we must do is to intensify our effort that we may shorten the war and save lives. We must forget about breathing spells and margins and relaxation.

If we begin to desert our posts on the assembly lines for peacetime berths; if we begin to maneuver for places of advantage in the peacetime economy; if we begin to chisel on the war effort for any reason; if we yield to the delusion that victory is so close we can loaf on our jobs, we are betraying our men on the fighting fronts.

At home, ours is the job of providing the sinews for winning the war. That job holds first priority on all of our energies, our thoughts, our actions.

Nothing that we here at home are doing remotely matches what our men are doing over there. The most extreme sacrifices that we make here are minor compared with what they are called upon to give and endure. Let us, then, do nothing that can cause them the least doubt as to the fullness of our support and the intensity of our effort. As between their needs and our preferences there is no room whatever for argument.

We must steel our nerves and fortify our determination to work and work together, with no slacking or fumbling while we have the ball on the 10-yard line in this war.

Today we face a double challenge, to speed victory and to be prepared for peace. We are strong enough and wise enough to meet that challenge.

REPLACEMENTS STILL NEEDED

Major-General Lewis B. Hershey, the Selective Service chief, dropped some more rather confusing remarks the other night in Seattle. He told a group of local draft board members that "we've got the Army practically built," but that the need for replacements was such that "even the men up to 38 are liable to be called."

This seems to put us right back in the muddle that existed before the country's pressing manpower needs were finally reconciled between industry and the armed forces.

Yet we cannot quarrel with the purpose behind the need for replacements. "Some of our boys have been overseas two and three years," General Hershey points out, "and it's time we brought them back." Certainly the return home for many is long overdue.

In a series of advertisements the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania (Esso) is outlining its plans for the post-war period, especially as they pertain to their employees who are in the service. The company states that every one of its employees in the service will get his old job back or one as good or better. The series of advertisements are interesting and should be read by every employer with men in the service.

The best guess on when the war will end is suggested by a summation by General Eisenhower, who remarks: "It is certain that German forces congregated on our front are taking a sound beating, but we are still a long way from the Rhine. It's not that this means the war can't end this year—anything can happen at any time in a crisis like the present—but it's well to remember that Hitler still has formidable forces at his disposal."

We wish that the mercury were like all the rest of us—lacked ambition to even move.

By the way those showers by-pass Warren, it would seem that the borough is a dust bowl.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

Without faith it is impossible to please him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.—Hebrews 11:6.

To take up half on trust, and half to try, Name it not faith, but bungling bigotry.

Savagery At Its Worst---From Now On

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Ever envy a U. S. senator out on one of those junkies?

Then try stretching a $6-a-day allowance to cover hotel bills, food, laundry and incidentals.

That's all a senator gets when he travels out of Washington as a member of an important committee seeking information on some timely problem.

Members of the War Investigating (Truman) committee have found themselves out-of-pocket anywhere from $100 to $800 at the end of each year's inquiries.

They even lose money on the train trips to and from points of hearings, for their tickets are purchased for them and the $6 a day allowance hardly covers meals, tips and smokes while on the train.

After they reach their destination, the problem becomes more complicated, for their slim allowance must cover the price of the hotel room and everything else.

HUGH FULTON, who has traveled many thousands of miles with the Truman committee as its chief counsel, is convinced that, with an occasional exception, every trip has cost members an appreciable sum.

In normal times, hotel owners, glad to have senators among their guests from the standpoint of prestige, give them special rates when they are on official business. Some, even now, charge them only the $6 they are allowed and take the loss.

But most of the time, the senators have to foot a substantial share of the cost themselves, often at standard rates for everything.

THIS is part of the story any senator can tell as evidence that his $10,000-a-year salary is anything but big when measured against his expenses.

Washington apartment and hotel rent is high. Yet, in addition to paying rent here, the senator, like his House colleague, must maintain a residence back home. Campaign costs often run into big figures for many.

They, like others, must pay state and federal income taxes.

As for entertainment, well—Every senator must be prepared to have guests in occasionally for dinner or other entertainment to keep up contacts valuable to every congressman.

And only a senator has any idea of the number of persons he has to feed from time to time at lunch. He can't afford to let a visiting constituent go hungry!

Mrs. McMurren Is Honored By Former Corydon Students At Annual Reunion

Corydon, Aug. 16.—The third annual garden party and reunion of the Corydon school took place August 13 at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, when Mrs. Reid, assisted by Mrs. L. R. Stryker, proved a most competent hostess for the delightful affair. Approximately 50 persons attended, with perfect weather adding to the day's enjoyment. A fine dinner was served outdoors at 1:30 o'clock, with guests seated at long tables made attractive with baskets of fruit and garden flowers.

Seated at the head of the table was the guest of honor, Mrs. Durand L. McMurren, of Edinboro, who, with her husband, the late D. L. McMurren, continues to occupy a warm place in the hearts of pupils and friends whom she served as a member of the teachers' faculty of the Corydon High school.

With Mrs. McMurren was her daughter, Miss Margaret McMurren, also of Edinboro, and her son, Elmer L. McMurren, and Mrs. McMurren, of New York City.

During the business meeting following the dinner, it was voted to hold all future gatherings the first Sunday in August rather than the second, with Mrs. Rubie Day, Mrs. George Prue and A. M. Kraft named as location committee. Of interest was another item, election of officers, which resulted in Mrs. Romola Clawson Spetz, of Dunkirk, N. Y., being chosen as president; George Black, Kilbuck, vice president; Miss Mayme Marsh, Warren, secretary and treasurer. A collection amount to $12.55 was turned over to the newly-elected treasurer. Unable to be present, but sending greetings that were read, were Mrs. Thomas Keough and her sister, the former Miss Florence Fitzpatrick, Buffalo; Mrs. Minnie Griffin Connolly, Olean; Mrs. Howard Anderson, New York. Thrilling and novel was the way taken by Mrs. Lucile Wade and Mr. Wade to extend greetings when they circled the scene of the gathering by plane—their "Happy Reunion" voiced from the skies was reported distinctly audible—and from what we gather concerning Sunday's affair, it was just that—happy reunion.

Those from away in attendance included Mrs. D. L. McMurren, Miss Margaret McMurren, Edinboro; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McMurren, New York; Miss Nellie Lounsbury (honorary member) accompanied by Miss Inez Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mills, Mrs. Mary Kerwin, Mrs. Gerald Fleming, Miss Marilyn Fleming, Mrs. Katherine Joy, Miss Gertrude Joy, Miss Mayme Marsh, Miss Nellie Marsh, Miss Wilma Stryker, Warren; Mrs. O. A. Kightlinger, Kinzua; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spetz, Dunkirk; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Browne, Panama Canal Zone; Homer Marsh, Farmers Valley; Mrs. Julia Marsh Smith, San Bernardino, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. George Black, Kilbuck; Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Sears, Miss Alberta Sears, Askeley; Mrs. Margaret Morrison Turney, Stow, N. Y.

Pittsfield Woman Is Honored Guest At Family Event

Miss Myrtle Norman gave a dinner party Saturday evening at her home in Pittsfield in honor of her mother, Mrs. Thompson, who will soon be 85 years of age.

Mrs. Thompson had all her children and grandchildren present for the occasion: Her son, Theodore Norman and wife of Palmer, Mass.; her daughters, Ida N. Taylor, of Garland, Wave N. Carlson and Vivian N. Smith, and Mrs. Smith, of Youngsville, and Miss Myrtle, at home; grandchildren, Frederick Carlson, Bradford, Norman Taylor, Garland; Theodore and Audrey Smith, Youngsville; Preston and Pearl Thomas, Sugar Grove, a brother and sister of Mrs. Theodore Norman, were also guests.

Table decorations were in lavender and gold, with a diamond shaped centerpiece, and the mother-in-law proved the outstanding attraction for the happy gathering.

Mrs. Thompson has spent most of her long life in Pittsfield and has lived to see many of her old friends precede her into the Eternal Home. The latest of her attractive home is always out to her friends. She is very proud of her flower garden and spends much of her time on sunny days working in the flowers with her daughter, Miss Myrtle. Her friends and family hope she may remain well and happy for many more anniversaries.

85th Anniversary Of M. J. Burke Is Occasion of Party

The M. J. Burke home at 22 Crescent street was the scene of a pleasant "at home" on Tuesday when relatives, neighbors and other friends called to wish Mr. Burke a very happy 85th birthday anniversary. Sharing in the honors was his wife, whose 85th anniversary was July 1.

On Sunday evening the occasion was marked with a gathering at the Billman Farm, when the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Haben, Robert Haben, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Appel, Mr. and Mrs. Burke and daughter, Helen, and Mrs. Billman and their two grandsons, of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hesch and two children, Mary and Winston, of Youngstown, O.; Miss Julia Coleman, Erie.

Mr. Burke came to Warren at the age of six months and has spent his entire lifetime here. He and a sister, Mrs. Sara Young, of Erie, are the last of a family of eight. Their family home was at the corner of Fourth avenue and Morrison street, where their mother operated a grocery store. A machinist by trade, Mr. Burke was in the employ of the Struthers-Wells firm for 50 years.

Dr. VerMilyea
Recounts Days
In Medicine

Members of the County Medical Society meeting Tuesday afternoon at the YWCA activities building were addressed by Dr. C. H. VerMilyea, of Russell, in a humorous recital of some of his experiences in 47 years of practice in and about Russell, dealing particularly with the branch of medicine known as obstetrics.

His remarks showed his record for twins is far above the average, about one pair to every 54 births as against one to 80 stated by authorities.

He stated Warren county is not free from hoveys, even in the farming district, and many instances were recorded of children born in manglers and worse, under most unsanitary conditions, but with mother, child and even father "doing well."

Twenty-one members attended the meeting and dinner which followed. On the committee were Doctors Elizabeth Beatty, O. S. Brown, Frank Buckingham, E. S. Briggs and L. E. Chapman.

WARNING
The forest fire situation in northwestern Pennsylvania, due to the present prolonged dry spell, is acute. Unless rain is forthcoming within the next two or three days, we will be faced with a potential catastrophe.

All persons residing in forested areas and all whose business or pleasure takes them there are requested to use extreme care in handling fire. A few simple rules faithfully observed will avoid a calamity.

1. When smoking in cars, do not throw burning material from cars. Use your ash tray.
2. Best policy is not to smoke in the woods; but if you must, be sure your match or smoking material is dead out before you drop it.
3. Do not build fires in or near a wooded area.
4. Do not burn brush or trash where sparks can reach dry grass or wooded lands.

Outing Club Scores Again In Floor Show

The Outing Club, one of the cool spots of the vicinity fanned by river breezes has come into its own in a big way during the past few weeks. Every evening the grounds are filled with picnic parties and the fireplaces and tables are getting a big play while the crackle of sizzling wieners resound in the land. In the early evening the boats of the club are all busy and many bathers enjoy the water of the river.

Arrangements for the picnic next Sunday are going forward in fine shape and Buck Sealise has been chasing chickens for the past few days and has rounded up some beauties that will be barbecued for the dinner at 5:30. The sports committee has arranged a good program. Only members of the club will be permitted and all must have a picnic ticket which may be purchased at the down town club or at the gate. No guests will be entertained.

The floor show this week is just a wee bit above par and is headed by two zanies Good and Goodie who have a line of fast patter and some gags that are new. These boys are just one jump ahead of the guy with the butterfly net and keep the crowd in an uproar. Diana Clifton, one of those gals who just could be a Powers model, if she so desired, as she has the curves where they ought to be and a beautiful face and how she can sing! Her selections go over big. And Bob and Maxine Gates in spite of the heat are possessed of vim, vigor and vitality and give out with some comedy dances that score. All in all the Outing Club right now is a swan place to come home to.

CUPID'S CASTAWAY

Chapter 10
AS THE car swung out of Boxwood Avenue, there was a lone pedestrian under the street light. Lucky leaned forward. That stocky figure, hatless, the thick ridged cheekbones, the thick wavy hair. . . He turned quickly and walked away from them. Lucky made an exclamation of surprise.

"What is it?" Di asked. "You startled me!"
"I'm sorry. For a minute I thought that man was Joe Breslin."

Di's head snapped toward Lucky. "Joe Breslin?"
Lucky saw the milk truck swing out of a side street in their path. She put her feet against the floor board and pointed. "Watch out!"

The car swerved wide, careening on two wheels. The truck's brakes squealed. They missed it by inches.

Di wet her lips with her tongue and laughed shakily. "Silly of me. Who is this Joe Breslin? What made you think it was he?"
Lucky stared back over her shoulder, but the man had disappeared. She said, "Don't you remember? I told you about coming up on the train with him. He lives on his sloop in the Islands. He's pretty old—around forty. I expect—and he used to drink. But he's all right now." She looked back again. "That probably wasn't Joe anyway. He didn't say anything about coming here."

Di said, "Probably not," and was silent the rest of the way to the station.
Lucky, absorbed in her own misery, didn't notice. Yet she remembered Di's silence, and her white hands gripping the wheel at mention of Joe's name. . . . But that was a month later, in far away Nassau.

Lucky had been home three weeks of that month. The Miami docks were the deserted air of mid-June—only a few boats scattered along each of the thin wooden piers reaching out to the pale turquoise of Biscayne Bay. At the far end of the outside dock, Blue Dolphin lay in deep water.

The two masts gleamed with fresh varnish, and the faded sails were dazzling in the morning sun. She looked sleek and ready for the cruise to Nassau—that cruise planned half in jest at Uncle Frank's, but for which May and Ben Alan were arriving this afternoon.

Lucky—in yellow denim shorts and a hair net, chamoising down bright work—was ready, too. She'd spent a hard grueling time since she got home, crowding into weeks what most girls took years to learn. About clothes, and dancing, and how to do her hair, her nails. She'd driven herself relentlessly, glad to be too tired to brood over Thad.

Ever since Uncle Frank's telephone call last night, Thad's name had been a tumultuous cry inside her. He and Uncle Frank had flown down on the utility case. They were in Miami. They'd be over this morning.

But she couldn't see him! She wouldn't! The thought of him was like a wildfire in her blood. Now, when she'd only just begun to forget him a little, to see him and have to start all over the painful face with her own blended shade of powder and to freshen her lipstick.

Then in a belated frenzy to be gone, she rushed out and up the companionway.

At the top she stopped, every nerve in her body caught in petrified stillness.

There on Blue Dolphin's deck, in the white Florida sunshine, stood Thad.

SHE couldn't analyze her emotions—only that they were chaotic. Thad, not the shadow in her heart, but real—a tall man with bright red hair in a white Palm Beach and a blue shirt that matched his eyes, who was holding out his hand and smiling down at her with friendliness.

She finally managed to form words.
"Oh, hello, Thad."

"Hi, Lucky."

He stepped back, steadying himself against the nautical blue-and-white cover on the high bunk.

"It's so—so hot—down here," she said faintly. "Let's go on deck."

They followed her up the companionway and after to the cockpit, which was gay with new red leather cushions on each of the long narrow seats and the wider thwartship seat. She dropped down beside Uncle Frank, looking at him determinedly.

In spite of that she heard only the last part of what he was saying. " . . . have to go back today. Our case has been postponed ten days."

"Ten days? What a shame!" But she was thinking, "He'll be here when we get back from Nassau. And I'm glad! It's crazy . . . but I am."

Cappy had spoken from the dock. " . . . cruise them ten days with you? Both of you?"
Lucky's head jerked up. Thad . . . with them? Blood drummed in her ears. To be with him, day after day. But it would be torture, too. She shouldn't let it happen.

To the Editor:
I received a letter from Chicago with a request that I send this clipping in to you to have printed in your paper as follows:

A one-time resident of this town George Streich, now living in Chicago, was surprised one evening while looking through his daily newspaper, "The Chicago Tribune" to see an article printed in it from Warren, Pa. The article is as follows:

Enclosed is clipping.

Thank you.

No Conscientious Objectors

Abroad

Warren, Pa., Aug. 2—I am a conscientious objector. Many people criticize me and my friends because we are doing relatively safe work here while other fellows are overseas on the battlefronts.

What people do not know is that there is a congressional ban on overseas service for c. o.'s, passed in the form of an inconspicuous rider to a military affairs appropriation at a time when the Quakers had 70 men fully trained and equipped with ambulances for service in China, and 150 more in training.

Many of us are eager to serve in accord with our faith in the danger areas overseas, if congressmen will repeal this restrictive law.
